Julianne,
There will likely be two public comment periods. The first will be post-hearing comments that take place before first notice and the second will be after publication of the First Notice opinion which will include any changes made as a result of the hearings. Public comments are generally not appropriate during second notice.
Hope this helps,
Debbie

Subject: IL rulemaking process -- CAFO rules

Hi everyone,

Once the public hearings on the proposed rules as submitted by Illinois EPA to the Board are over, will there be an opportunity for the public, including EPA, to comment on any changes the Board decides to make to the CAFO rules? If I understand the IAPA correctly, at the conclusion of the hearings the Board will propose the regulations in the Illinois Register for first notice. There should be a public comment period of at least 45 days for this first notice. Should I assume that the rules proposed in the Illinois Register for first notice will include any changes that the Board makes to the rules in response to comments presented during the hearings? Is there an opportunity for public comment during second notice of the rules?

Thanks for any clarify information about the rulemaking procedures you can provide.
